[Indices of functional state of the myocardium in patients with impaired or normal left ventricular contractility]. The study of time course of Ca²⁺ transmembrane influx in intact cardiomyocytes (dissociated by trypsin) revealed direct dependence of the total amount of the drug entering the cells on the intrinsic resistance of sarcolemma to it. This resistance was distinctly lower in the case of cardiomyocytes from patients with hypertrophic cardiomyopathy than in those from the other groups under study. The period of the possible development of certain compensatory mechanisms was established by pharmacological (local and general anapriline) and electrophysiological methods in normal myocardium and that of impaired left ventricular contractility. That of the latter was determined by the lateness of the correction of Ca²⁺ influx in cardiomyocytes after the dissociation and inhibition of Ca(2+)-dependent functions during a long-term treatment with anapriline. Helene St. James Detroit Free Press TORONTO — The Detroit Red Wings are sending a letter to the Ontario Hockey League to try to get their First-Round pick back. The Wings selected 16-year-old right wing Quintin Laight with the No. 58 pick in the 2016 OHL Priority Draft on Tuesday. The Wings will forfeit the rights to Laight and receive the right to select a player with the 189th overall pick later in the First Round on Tuesday. The Wings' selection of Laight had been looked at as a potential steal. Laight is a 6-foot-3, 196-pound right-shot forward who is rated No. 1 on most scouting sites. "The Wings pride themselves on developing players and bringing them through our organization," said Chris Ilitch, chairman of edd6d56e20
