Software is needed to access

data and drives, to communicate with other devices and to perform basic tasks. Software developers create software with complex instructions. Then, engineers develop the software into a completed program or application. Professional programmers are needed to develop many programs each year. Increasing interest in computer programming has led to greater demand for programmers. The Bureau of Labor Statistics reports that software developers held a total of 315,280 jobs in 2007. The number of jobs for software developers is expected to continue to grow throughout the coming years. This is according to the Bureau of Labor Statistics. Job prospects for software developers are expected to remain strong, as the technology industry develops new innovations. The government has begun funding research in biotechnology and nanotechnology. This area of study is expected to lead to many exciting new opportunities for computer programmers. Computer programmers often work in an office. They need access to a computer with an internet connection and software programs. The tools of their trade also include a keyboard, mouse and display screen. Computer programmers sometimes work from home, where access to a personal computer is possible. They may spend a portion of their work week from home, but most of the work will be done in an office. Computer programmers need to have good communication skills to collaborate with others and to communicate ideas to clients and employers. Skills Most software developers need a bachelor's degree in computer science. Software engineers can earn bachelor's degrees through the first two years of college. They may then go on to pursue a master's degree in computer science. They should also have proficiency in computer languages such as Java, Visual Basic, and C++. A wide range of technical skills are needed for software development. The ability to work with complex hardware systems is a desirable skill. C++, Java and web design are other important areas of knowledge. Many software developers spend time learning new software programming languages and techniques. Computer programmers must be patient and thorough in their work. They are often responsible for projects that may take months to
